National Public Safety PARTNERSHIP

The National Public Safety Partnership (PSP) was launched in June 2017 by the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) to serve as a DOJ-wide initiative that enables cities to consult with and receive coordinated training and technical assistance (TTA) and an array of resources from DOJ's programmatic and law enforcement components. PSP is not a grant program. PSP is an intensive TTA initiative designed to help the selected locations develop capacity and implement programs and procedures intended to reduce violent crime.

Law enforcement agencies from local, county, and tribal jurisdictions may submit a letter of interest to join the PSP program in 2019. Interested sites should review the following background and selection criteria to determine qualification; jurisdictions must be experiencing a precipitous increase in violent crime.

What does PSP offer to local communities?

- Three-year commitment from DOJ to deliver no-cost, customized TTA designed to build capacity and fight violent crime
- Strategic Site Liaison (retired law enforcement executive) to serve as a DOJ liaison, mentor, and coach
- Expedited federal resources and tools
- Annual PSP Symposium participation
- Peer learning opportunities
- Grant strategy assistance
- Goal setting and strategic plan development
- Assessments of various law enforcement and prosecutor capacities
- PSP is not a grant program. Sites do not receive direct funding through this initiative.

Site Selection Criteria

In consultation with U.S. Attorneys and DOJ law enforcement partners, sites will be selected through a quantitative and qualitative evaluation process. This process will consider, at a minimum, whether a jurisdiction:

- Has sustained levels of violence that far exceed the national average.
- Is experiencing a precipitous increase in violent crime.
- Is presently underresourced in its capacity to drive down violent crime (special consideration may be given to rural jurisdictions).
- Has demonstrated readiness to participate in this collaborative initiative and coordinate efforts with the local Project Safe Neighborhoods program.
